

Analytical tools and methods to evaluate impacts of public policies on Sustainable Development Goals

27 September 2016

9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Fondazione Eni Enrico Mattei
Corso Magenta 63, Milan

In September 2015, the adoption of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by the United Nations, as the Millennium Development Goals follow-up, defined broader and more ambitious development targets for both developed and developing countries, encompassing all sustainability dimensions (economic, financial, institutional, social and environmental). These goals will be crucial to design the pathway towards an inclusive green growth in each country. Ambitious targets call for ambitious policies and, in parallel, for operational, timely and informative evaluation tools to monitor progresses.

Against this background, the workshop aims to provide an up-to-date overview of the most recent methodological tools and approaches to evaluate the effectiveness of policies toward the achievement of SDGs.

The workshop objective is to blend methodological aspects with policy relevant messages by identifying tools that will help assessing the role and impacts of different policy measures towards sustainability. The picture provided will span from macroeconomic ex-ante model-based policy scenario analysis to the indicator-based assessment of the effect of policies toward sustainability.
